

Abstract

Béres, Tibor and Lukács, György: „Money with interest” – illegal money lending in the Cserehát Region

The study summarizes the results of the research in the villages of Cserehát Region regarding the „money with interest”. The involved households belong to the most disadvantaged 20% in Hungary; the deficits of the households are regular and high: monthly 30-100 thousand forints. They are living in a permanent crisis; their economic life can be characterized by the lack of incomes and perspectives. The usury is used basically by unmotivated and economically passive households. The study is analyzing the economic background and possibilities of the over-indebted groups, and trying to answer the question: „what to do against the usury”.
